2. Purposes and legal basis of data processing

The processing of your personal data always occurs in compliance with the European General Data Protection Regulation as well as all other relevant laws and is generally for a specific purpose.

If you wish to conclude a purchase agreement, this is not possible without you providing personal data. The processing of personal data serves in the case of executing the contractual relationship and is based on Art. 6 para. 1 b GDPR. Your data will also be processed to safeguard the legitimate interests of ourselves or third parties in accordance with Art. 6 para. 1 f GDPR.

In addition, data may be processed in the context of legal obligations such as regulatory requirements or retention obligations under commercial and fiscal law. The lawfulness of the processing results from the respective statutory regulations in conjunction with Art. 6 para. 1 c GDPR.

If your data are processed for a purpose other than any of those designated above, you will be informed in advance in accordance with legal provisions.

3. Recipients of personal data

If a salesperson deals with directly in relation to your agreement, he will process the data you have notified to conclude and execute the contractual relationship. It is also possible that the company will forward your data to the staff member dealing with you.

4. Transfer of data to a third country

Ebara Precision Machinery Europe GmbH is an international subsidiary of the Ebara Corporation based in Japan. However, your data will only be transferred to such a third country if the EU Commission has confirmed an appropriate level of data protection or if other appropriate data protection guarantees exist.

5. Duration of data storage

Your data will be deleted at the point in time in which they are no longer required for the purposes stated above.

It is possible that data will be stored for the period in which claims against the company are pending and may be asserted. In this case, limitation periods of from three to 30 years apply.

In addition, storage of personal data occurs if we are legally obliged to do so. Any documentary and retention obligations may arise based on the Commercial Code, for example. In such cases, the prescribed retention periods are up to ten years.

6. The rights of parties affected

You have a right to information by law. Accordingly, you may request information about the data stored in relation to you individually by using the contact details shown above.

Under certain circumstances, you may also request the correction or deletion of your data. In addition, you have the right to restrict the processing of your data.

You have the right to object to the processing of the collected data. Furthermore, you have the option to direct a complaint to the aforementioned data security officer or a data protection authority.

7. Automated individual case decisions

If we implement automated individual case decisions, you have the right to have an individual intervene on your behalf with those responsible, to present your point of view and challenge the decision. This right lapses once your request has been granted in full.
